

NEC Provides Turnkey Security Services for Davis + Henderson

Canada's largest financial support company leverage's NEC's UNIVERGE®360 services and partnership approach for best-of-breed security solutions

IRVING, TX, June 3, 2008 — Today, NEC Unified Solutions, Inc., a global leader in enterprise business communications, announced NEC Network Security Solutions as the turnkey security solutions provider for Davis+Henderson (D+H).

Founded more than 135 years ago, D+H provides checking and lending support services to Canada's retail banking institutions. Because of the relationship D+H has with Canada's banking industry and the sensitivity of the end customers' data, the company is audited two to five times each month. NEC and managed security services partner SecureWorks are providing the security monitoring, management, and reporting that enables D+H to quickly react to external threats and stay proactive in order to meet the demands of regulatory compliance and frequent audits.

"Based on the commitment and level of service NEC and its partners have shown, I have complete faith in NEC as our turnkey security solution provider," said Al Beveridge, chief information security officer for Davis + Henderson. "Whereas I previously spent a significant portion of my time managing security vendors, with NEC and SecureWorks I get proactive monitoring and management, thorough reporting and peace of mind that our network is in compliance with our many auditing and regulatory concerns."

In addition, Mark Bryant, director of IT operations for Davis + Henderson said, "I like the fact that NEC and SecureWorks take care of every detail. They have the trained experts, so I don't have to go out and hire anyone. Their model allows me to get to market faster. I also appreciate that the online portal allows me to see everything at-a-glance."

In conjunction with strategic alliance partner, SecureWorks, NEC enables protection across D+H's network, safeguarding the perimeter, critical internal assets, confidential data, remote users, customers and partners. NEC's services, partnerships and strategic alliances with companies like SecureWorks are a unique element of NEC's UNIVERGE360 approach to business communications, which places people and their roles at the center of communications.

"Major financial services institutions such as D+H are under enormous regulatory pressure to comply with banking standards and protect their customers' personal information, which requires a proactive and thorough approach to network security," said Paul Lopez, general manager of professional services development, NEC Unified Solutions. "NEC Security Solutions enables enterprises to create a secure and stable network environment, providing peace of mind and allowing them to focus on excellent customer service.”

NEC Network Security Solutions allows businesses to help protect critical corporate resources with proactive managed and professional security services. For more information on NEC Network Security Solutions, visit us online at www.necunified.com/security.
